PATTERNS FROM NATURE

Judhajit Sengupta

There are patterns all around you--in plants, animals and things made by human beings. Patterns are not only beautiful, they are also useful. They might hide an animal from its enemies as the zebra's stripes do. They might even send out a signal as a peacock's display does.

Here is a book that will show you some of these colourful patterns in nature. Each page needs a pattern to complete the picture. Study the patterns on the inner back cover. Then choose the right one for each picture. Paint the right pattern to see the difference it makes.
